Iran Expects Oil Talks To Reopen

Tehran, Iran (AP)—Iranian government officials were optimistic last night over prospects for reopening oil talks with Britain on terms sent from London yesterday by American negotiator W. Averell Harriman.

All oil production was scheduled to stop Tuesday. Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's son-in-law, Mattin Daftari, a member of Parliament's joint oil board, said there was a "spirit of conciliation" at a special cabinet-board meeting that considered the British terms relayed by Harriman.

Details worked out at the meeting were cabled to Harriman. "Indications are that the British government is ready to accept our oil nationalization law," Education minister Karim Sanjabi told reporters after the meeting.

"I am more optimistic about new talks than at any time before," Unconfirmed reports said Mossadegh's Cabinet is willing to discuss "additions" to the oil nationalization law that would water down some of the drastic phases the British objected to.

Harriman's report brought quick action yesterday. The Cabinet and National Oil board went into special session and afterwards Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said:

"Hopeful reports sent by Mr. Harriman from London were discussed."

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. (AIOC) announced the Abadan refinery—world's greatest—will shut down completely Tuesday. It has produced only a trickle in the last month.

We're not shutting down to frighten the Persians, but simply because the storage tanks are full," an AIOC official said. They hold 500,000,000 gallons.

The first bare announcement of a shutdown was regarded by some Iranians as a British pressure move to get negotiations going on what happens to AIOC under Iran's oil nationalization law.

American Ambassador Henry F. Grady called on Premier Mohammed Mossadegh yesterday morning with the report from Harriman, President Truman's diplomatic trouble-shooter.

Four Drown, Four Missing

Edmundston, N. D. (AP)—Four persons drowned near here yesterday and four more are missing following the capsizing and sinking of a small hand-operated cable ferry. There were 51 aboard the craft which normally carries about 25 passengers.

Hundreds were watching a regatta in Lake Caron, about 20 miles from here, when the cable snapped as the boat was crossing from the mainland to an island. Survivors swam to shore or were picked up in small boats and many were taken to a hospital suffering from shock. Grappling operations are still going on under lights late last night.

Hirohito Looks For Wife For Prince Akihito

Tokyo, Monday (AP)—The director-general of Japan's imperial household disclosed today that Emperor Hirohito has begun looking around for a wife for 17-year-old Crown Prince Akihito.

In the past, imperial princesses never were consulted, but were told who they would marry. Akihito, however, will be consulted about his bride choice.

By tradition, a choice will be made from one of the eligible daughters of Japan's eleven noble families—all closely related to Emperor Hirohito's family.

Little 11-year-old Princess Kikuko appears to be favored by the imperial household, but it will depend on what Akihito thinks about her.

Kaufmann Quits Red Cross Post

Philadelphia (AP)—Arthur S. Kaufmann, prominent department store executive here, assailed the "bigoted policy of the National Red Cross" in a letter of resignation as chairman of the organization's Southeastern Pennsylvania chapter.

Kaufmann is the seventh of a 16-member executive committee to resign in protest against the order of the national body for the local chapter, second largest in the country, to withdraw from the United Fund, a group of local charities which combined in a single drive for funds last year.

Fourth Polio Case

Easton, (AP)—Easton health officials yesterday reported the fourth polio case of the summer. The victim is Mrs. Ann Meahan, 24, of Easton, who is in Easton hospital.

Squabble Over Buffer Zone Stymies Talks; U. N. Refuses To Discuss 'Political' Matter

Truman Promises Not To Call Congress Back After Completing Four-Point 'Must' Program

Washington (AP)—Barring emergencies, President Truman has promised not to call Congress back into session after it completes a four-point program this fall, Senator McFarland (D-Ariz.) said yesterday.

McFarland, the Democratic leader, said he hopes Congress can wind up its work some time in September and certainly not later than October 1.

"The President has said that once we get the must legislation passed, he has no intention of calling Congress back into session unless some unforeseen emergency should arise," the Arizona senator told a reporter.

The four-point program which

McFarland has been pushing includes final passage of the controls measure, a new tax bill, the regular appropriations bills and the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

A compromise version of the controls measure is ready for final action by Congress this week.

The House has passed a $7,200,000,000 tax-boosting bill which probably won't reach the Senate floor from its Finance committee until late in August.

The foreign aid authorization still is in committee in both houses and its passage must be followed by a later bill appropriating actual funds for military and economic assistance abroad. Regular appropriations measures have been moving like molasses in January although the Senate showed a burst of speed Friday in approving the farm and Treasury-Postoffice money bills in a single day. Its approval the same day of the compromise controls bills set something of a record for senatorial speed.

McFarland indicated that his four-point program has been cleared by the President as representing the only "must" legislation now in sight, despite appeals by Mr. Truman for action on other measures such as the St. Lawrence seaway proposal pigeonholed by a House committee last week.

Taxes Return To Forefront As Legislature Reconvenes

Harrisburg, (AP)—Pennsylvania's marathon Legislature goes into the eighth month of the 1951 session this week, still widely split on the tax issue.

The lawmakers resume the mid-summer session today to make another try at deciding whether to pass Gov. John S. Fine's income tax, a substitute for it or to declare the long fight a dead heat.

In event the battling Republican factions, especially in the Senate, fail to agree on a tax program the problem would be put over for a special session, probably early in 1952.

Two new suggestions to compromise the income tax issue developed while the lawmakers were back home for last week's primary election.

Under one of them, the proposed one-half of one per cent income levy to raise $119,000,000 in two years, would be earmarked for payment of the State veterans bonus and for State education subsidies.

The other would place a limitation, through a constitutional amendment, on the rate of the income tax. A major objection to the income tax has been that once it becomes a part of the State's tax structure, the rate would be increased by succeeding legislatures.

The tax battle developed when a group of 11 Republican Senators, self-styled "rebels," refused to support the income levy after it passed the House by a narrow margin last April. Since then a long list of possible substitute taxes have been suggested without agreement on any of them.

Governor Fine, at a weekend news conference, said he didn't like the idea of earmarking the income tax for any specific purpose but, if the Legislature chose to do that, he would approve the bill.

"I do not think any tax should be tied to any one object for a particular purpose but if the Legislature attaches the income tax in this way I will not disapprove," the Governor told reporters.

Senate Republicans called an unusual 10 a. m. caucus for today to see what the primary election results did, if anything, in the way of changing any minds on the tax issue.

Wife Jailed In Fatal Stabbing Of Coal Miner

Ashland (AP)—A 40-year-old mother was jailed yesterday on charges of fatally stabbing her coal miner husband with a 10-inch butcher knife during a pre-dawn quarrel in the kitchen of their home.

Mrs. Mary Higgins was arrested before Squire John Boris and charged with twice thrusting the blade into her husband Martin's back. She will be given a further hearing today.

Louis D. Buono, chief of Schuylkill county detectives, said Mrs. Higgins' 17-year-old son, John, told this story:

He had gone to the movies Saturday night and afterwards picked up his mother in an Ashland tavern and took her home. The 44-year-old father had been home all evening. John went to bed. Shortly afterwards he heard a commotion downstairs. He went into the kitchen, saw his mother standing over the body of his father, the knife in her hand.

Nationalist Invaders Control Third Of Yunnan Province

Taipei, Formosa, (AP)—A relative of Lt. Gen. Li Mi said yesterday that Li's Chinese Nationalist forces, which struck into Red China from North Burma, now controlled about one-third of the large southwest province of Yunnan.

Official Nationalist quarters assuring an innocent look, obviously trying to give the impression that Nationalist headquarters knew nothing about Li's activities.

The reason for this attitude apparently is that the Nationalists do not want to give anyone the idea they are violating President Truman's ban of June 27, 1951, on operations against the Red mainland.

Officials would say only that they had known Li was in North Burma but were still awaiting details of what he was doing.

Rainless July 29 Fourth In Row For Waynesburg

Waynesburg, Monday, (AP)—Believers in the tradition feel a little let down today — it didn't rain on July 29, the day that showers are supposed to fall without fail on this Greene County community.

The temperature stood at 90 in the afternoon with only a few clouds in the sky all day. It was the fourth year in a row that the tradition of rain on July 29 failed to hold true. Over the past 76 years, it has only missed raining only eight times.

$1 Billion Foreign Aid Cut Urged

Washington (AP)—A billion dollar cut in foreign aid was proposed yesterday by Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) as a part of a program to chop $5,000,000,000 off President Truman's spending budget.

Douglas, who has pushed through about $180,000,000 in potential savings by amendments to the military services also can save $2,000,000,000 by "eliminating waste."

It is his aim, the Illinois Senator told a reporter, to trim $2,000,000,000 off civilian agency funds to round out the $5,000,000,000 he thinks Congress may be able to slice off the $71,500,000,000 spending Mr. Truman proposed for the current fiscal year.

Recently Douglas has been getting Senate approval for some of the "surgical" cuts he has proposed. Instead of across-the-board reductions some other Senators have sponsored. However, neither type of economy has had much success in recent years and until all appropriations are voted, no net results can be calculated.

Education Council Protests Action Of Draft Boards

Washington (AP)—The American Council on Education complained yesterday that some draft boards are showing prejudice against college students.

Brig. Gen. Louis H. Renfrow, acting director of Selective Service, replied that "arbitrary action by local boards should not be tolerated."

Raymond S. Howes, staff associate of the council, said this private organization of educators is getting many letters complaining that local boards "have a bias against college students."

Howes said some of these boards classify college students 1-A—immediately eligible for the draft—regardless of their scholastic standing or their score in the recent draft aptitude test.

Convoy En Route To Fort Bragg

Fort Bragg, N. C. (AP)—A motor convoy carrying advance troops of the 28th Infantry Division is on its way from Camp Atterbury, Ind.

The advance party will prepare the bivouac area here for the arrival of the rest of the division which is expected in about two weeks. Maj. Stanley E. Brinton, of Harrisburg, Pa., is in charge of the convoy.

The division will participate in exercise "Southern Pine" maneuvers here from August 13 to September 2 after which the 28th will return to Camp Atterbury to prepare for transfer to a European assignment.

HST Expected To Sign New Controls Bill

Washington (AP)—An administration spokesman predicted yesterday that President Truman will promptly sign the new economic controls bill as "better than nothing at all."

A Republican leader countered that the bill will work, if used properly.

"I don't think the President will like it," Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee told newsmen that the House prepared to send the toned-down measure to Mr. Truman today.

"But he's got to sign it," Spence added. "It's better than nothing at all and without it we would have nothing when the present law expires next Tuesday midnight."

Spence complained that the compromise bill, far short of what the President asked to cope with inflation, "is full of bugs" and "represents victory for the organized interests."

"There are no rollbacks in this bill," he said. "This is a roll-up bill and the consumer is going to get the worst of it."

However, Spence said, he will ask the House to send the bill along to Mr. Truman because "it's the best we can get under the circumstances."

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, assistant Republican leader, said he is "disappointed over some provisions of the bill but by and large it should be adequately if properly administered."

"The President requested powers that were not necessary," Halleck added. "I believe we have given him ample powers in this bill to cope with the situation as it now exists if the law is properly administered."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) joined in the discussion with an assertion at Plymouth, Mass., that American liberty is threatened "by the advocates of totalitarian control and Socialism at home."

"We find an administration in power today in this country whose domestic policies would bring the United States very close to the Socialism of Great Britain, and establish in this country an arbitrary control by the Federal government of the commerce, industry, labor, agriculture and all welfare services," Taft said.

He spoke at a Republican meeting in Plymouth, calling for a return to the principles of individual liberty and personal integrity exemplified by the Pilgrim fathers.

Duff Brands Talks 'Fake'

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.) says Korean cease-fire talks are "a fake" to divert America's attention from other focal points of Russian aggression.

"Although Russia is now preaching peace in Korea," he said, "they are practicing torture and tyranny elsewhere in the world."

In a speech to the seventh annual State convention of the American Veterans of World War Two (Amvets) Saturday night, he said the Korean armistice talks should not stop military preparedness.

"The cease-fire talks in Korea have a lot of people fooled," he asserted. "They figure this may be the end of the trouble with Russia. That is where they are wrong."

Duff cited figures to show that the Russian air force now outnumbers America's by 12 to 1. Even after further U. S. airplane production in the next year, he said, the edge will be reduced only to six to one.

Fine, Duff Deny Reports Of Split

Harrisburg, (AP)—Both Gov. John S. Fine and U. S. Sen. James H. Duff deny reports of a split between them.

They commented over the weekend on a report published by Time magazine that they have fallen out, with Fine lining up with the Republican faction headed by former U. S. Sen. Joseph R. Grundy.

The two were top candidates on the Duff-Fine ticket, which defeated the Grundy organization in the bitter 1950 GOP primary.

Their reactions to the magazine report:

Fine—"My relations with Senator Duff have been and are now amiable."

Duff—"I have not in the slightest broken with Governor Fine."

ESTABLISHMENT OF A MILITARY LINE, to be held if an armistice is reached forms the major topic at the Kaesong (circle) talks between United Nations and Communist delegates. The Reds, according to a spokesman, insist that the armistice line be drawn six miles on either side of the 38th Parallel. American sources emphasize that the present battle front should be the core of the projected Korean neutral zone.

Allied Troops Capture Hill Northeast Of Yanggu; U.S. Jets Tangle With Red MIGs

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Monday, (AP)—Veteran Allied fighters won a high point dominating a key hill mass northeast of Yanggu yesterday and capture of the Red stronghold was predicted within hours.

United Nations gunners firing from the newly-won prominence poured a rain of steel into Communist bunkers on the hill mass.

The Reds have put up a bitter, four-day fight for the hill.

To the northeast, Communist fighters three times hurled back a U. N. force attempting to cross the Na river 35 miles north of Parallel 38. The river runs northwest of Kaesong, east coast port.

In the west, Red troops fired on two Allied patrols less than four miles from the Munsan-Kaesong road, route to the truck talks.

An Eighth Army spokesman said 2,400 Reds were killed, wounded or captured in the week ended Friday.

U. S. and Red jet fighters tangled yesterday over northwest Korea. One Russian-type MIG-15 was reported damaged.

There were no details of the air battles, but Far East Air Forces reported increased Communist "aerial activity." The Russian-type jets, gaining altitude in their "privileged sanctuary" of Manchuria, usually attack Allied fighters south of the Yalu river boundary and flash back to safety after a brief engagement.

FEAF reported 750 sorties were flown during the day, including fighter-bomber strikes on Communist supply lines throughout North Korea. Red airfields were pounded during the night.

The Korean Red communique, broadcast by the Moscow radio, complained bitterly of raids by "American air pirates."

Quick Thinking Prevents Injury

Franklin (AP)—Quick thinking by a father yesterday probably prevented serious injury to his eight-month-old son who swallowed a safety pin.

William E. Eckard kept his fingers in his son Danny's mouth for more than 10 minutes in a police ambulance ride to the hospital. Physicians removed the pin in an emergency operation. The pin had lodged in the right side of the baby's mouth.

Reds Demand Line Be Set At Parallel

U. N. Advance Headquarters, Korea, Monday, (AP)—United Nations and Communist teams resumed their deadlock truce talks today with neither side showing any inclination to yield on the touchy buffer zone problem.

It was the fourth round of talks at Kaesong on the issue of a military dividing line across Korea.

An official spokesman indicated the Allies intend to stand firm on their contention that a buffer zone generally should follow the present battle line. This dips below parallel 38, in the west, and runs 35 miles north of the parallel in eastern Korea.

The Reds want the buffer strip along 38 "as a basic condition for ending hostilities."

Today's session, the 14th since the talks began, opened as scheduled at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. EDT, Sunday). The Allied delegation left this base camp in four helicopters 35 minutes before the meeting.

"Little tangible progress" was made at the thirteenth session yesterday, a United Nations communique announced.

"It was just another one of those days," said an official U. N. spokesman, Brig. Gen. William Nuckolls. He said a wide divergence of opinion continued, despite a two-hour 55-minute session.

Radio Peiping today restated the Communist insistence that the 38th parallel be fixed as the demarcation line with troops to be withdrawn six and one-quarter miles on either side.

The Red broadcast quoted Gen. Nam Il, senior Communist delegate, as saying this "conforms to military realities . . . and constitutes the basis for the present armistice negotiations."

It said Nam accused the U. N. delegation of attempting to gain a "one-sided advantageous military position by boasting of the effectiveness of indiscriminate naval and air bombardment."

Nam called it "not a proper attitude to be adopted at the armistice negotiations."

According to authoritative information, the U. N. delegation has refused to accede to this Red demand, on the ground that withdrawal from the present front—generally well north of 38—would be a political matter.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. delegate at the Kaesong armistice talks, insists that his delegation is empowered to act on military matters only.

Army Ousts Commander

Washington, (AP)—The Army yesterday relieved Brig. Gen. David J. Crawford from his command of the Detroit tank arsenal and reprimanded him for accepting favors from contracting companies and using government material for personal purposes.

An announcement said Secretary of the Army Pace had taken the action after a report from the Army inspector general showed Crawford had "violated Army regulations and had not met the high standards required of an Army officer."

Crawford will be replaced in the Detroit arsenal command by Brig. Gen. Carroll H. Dietrick, presently commander of the Watertown, Mass., arsenal.

Crawford's successor, Dietrick, is a 53-year-old native of Watertown, Pa., who started his military career in the Navy in World War One.

After that war he graduated from Cornell and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army, where he has spent 30 years as an ordnance officer.

New York (AP)—The diesel engine of the New York Central's crack 20th Century Limited lost a wheel at Amsterdam, N. Y., early yesterday morning while doing about 70 miles an hour. The 13-car Chicago to New York train made a jolting emergency stop, but no injuries to passengers or crew were reported.

Teague Pleads For Okay Of Health Bill

Dr. Russell E. Teague, State secretary of health, released a statement here yesterday in which he urged enactment by the Pennsylvania General Assembly of House Bill 1310 to establish a public health system on county or multi-county units.

The statement, beamed at members of the House including Rep. John S. Sholtz, Effort, Pa., also contained an appeal for public support for the measure.

Pointing to endorsement of the bill by leading medical, public health, welfare and civic organizations of the Commonwealth, Dr. Teague said:

"Legislative measures of vital importance to the health and welfare of Pennsylvania are waiting action of the State Legislature at Harrisburg.

"The House of Representatives will vote on these bills for final passage when the Legislature convenes today. House Bill 1310 known as the 'Local Health Administration Law,' would permit counties and municipalities to cooperate with the State in developing their own health departments.

"The bill outlines in detail the structure of such departments which have been called by authorities in this field 'the cornerstone of the Nation's health.'

Noting that the bill has the unqualified backing of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, and the support of leading public health, welfare and civic organizations, Teague said the proposed measures protect the entity of local boards of health.

"The booklet is not a first aid course," Dr. Richard Gerstell, State director of civil defense emphasized. How to handle injured people."

Learner Falls Asleep; Auto Strikes Tree

Effort — A 24-year-old Bethlehem man, who fell asleep while driving a car on an operator's permit, will be arrested as a result of a one-vehicle crash which occurred two miles north of here on the old Wilkes-Barre turnpike shortly after 4 a.m. yesterday.

Layman E. Rau, of 816 Walton St., Bethlehem, was driving his own 1940 heavy model sedan northward on the old highway when, according to Brodheadville State police, he apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

His car left the right side of the highway, plunged onto the lawn of the summer residence of Allen Loose, of Mauch Chunk, cut up the lawn, and crashed into a tree.

Rau, who was traveling alone at the time, was unhurt, but the entire right side of his machine was smashed. Damage to shrubbery and the lawn on the Loose property was estimated at $50.

When investigating troopers discovered that Rau was driving on a learner's permit, they filed charges against him, citing that the learner should have been accompanied by

Boroughs Oppose Truck Measure

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania League of Boroughs came out yesterday against legislation increasing truck weight limits in the Commonwealth.

Thomas F. Chrostwaite, league president, said heavy trucks already have caused "extensive" damage to local streets. He warned that heavier trucks would hasten this destruction.

The League claims representation of an estimated 95 per cent of the borough population in Pennsylvania.

The truck weight bill, already passed by the Senate and now before a House committee, would boost weight limits for commonly-used semi-trailers from 45,000 to 60,000 pounds.

Edward J. Dolan To Leave For Coast Guard Cruise

Edward J. Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dolan, East Stroudsburg RD 3, a cadet at the United States Coast Guard Academy, will leave with other men in his group at the academy for an August 13 cruise which will take them to Nova Scotia and Bermuda.

Edward, who was graduated with this year's class at East Stroudsburg High school, will be on cruise three weeks. He passed competitive examinations for appointment to the Coast Guard Academy which he entered July 5. After two weeks at the academy he received notice of appointment as a midshipman to U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., which was confirmed by Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D-20th District).

The young man had been "sold" by this time on Coast Guard. He decided to remain at that academy. After four years he will graduate with a bachelor of science degree and commissioned as ensign in the Coast Guard. He will appreciate mail from friends at this address: Cadet Edward J. Dolan, Room

Couple Pinned In Overturned Car; Woman Receives Painful Injuries

New Sedan Leaves Road At Curve

Portland—A woman was painfully injured here at 7:45 last night when a car operated by her husband failed to negotiate the sudden down-pitched curve at the Lackawanna Railroad underpass at the south edge of the borough of Portland.

The woman, Mrs. Marie Corvari, 23, of Atlantic City, N. J., was thrown against the windshield of their new model sedan as it went out of control, ran off the curving highway, hit a headwall for a drain pipe, jumped the drain inlet and hurtled 10 feet against a tree.

The machine then rolled over, pinning Mrs. Corvari and her husband, Serafino, an Army enlistment man, in the wreckage momentarily.

Residents of that section of the borough ran to the scene on hearing the crash. They assisted the couple and summoned Dr. Howard Ott, Portland physician, who hurried to the scene and treated the injured couple.

Dr. Ott said Mrs. Corvari appeared to be seriously injured, sustaining severe head and back injuries. She and her husband were moved to Monroe County General hospital by Blue Valley ambulance from Bangor.

The hospital later announced that Mrs. Corvari suffered cerebral concussion and lacerations of the scalp and body, as well as possible fracture of the vertebrae. X-ray examinations of the woman's spinal column will not be completed until early today, a hospital spokesman said, but her condition was classified as "good" at midnight.

Mrs. Corvari's husband was treated at the hospital for several arm lacerations, after which he was discharged. It had appeared earlier that he might be more seriously hurt because of his bedraggled, blood-stained appearance.

Chief Jesse Felker, who investigated the mishap, said the badly damaged car was pulled back to the highway and then towed to a Portland garage after the couple were taken to the hospital. Preliminary estimate indicated that it might be a total loss.

Chief Felker said the couple indicated they were bound for New Haven, Conn., having traveled north from Alexandria, Va., where Corvari is assigned to special duty at U. S. Army property at 200 King St., Alexandria.

The new car, recently purchased by Corvari, bore Virginia license plates. Persons at the scene last night voiced the opinion that Corvari, unfamiliar with Route 611 between Easton and Portland, evidently lost control when he found his car heading for the "hidden curve" after passing through the branch line underpass.

Four-Car Collision Occurs During Rainstorm Saturday

Marshall's Creek—Four cars were involved in a highway collision on Route 209 north of here during a Saturday rainstorm when the first two machines in line stopped on the road.

A 1941 sedan, owned and operated by Norman Davis, 46, of 91 Windling Lane, East Hartford, Conn., had stopped on the highway when Dr. Samuel Lickoff, 39-year-old Camden, N. J., physician approached the rear of the Davis car.

Dr. Lickoff brought his 1950 heavy model sedan to a halt, but two other cars behind him bore down upon and struck the Camden physician's car.

A 1942 sedan, owned and operated by Paul W. Grofsnik, 33-year-old Philadelphia cabinet maker, crashed into the rear of the Lickoff car, smashing the rear bumper, trunk, tail lights and left fender.

The jolt threw the motionless machine into the rear of the Davis car and caused further damage to the front of the New Jersey car.

The Grofsnik car was also damaged at front and rear when a 1950 convertible coupe, driven by Raymond E. Quinlan, 56-year-old Bennington, Vt., druggist, banked into the Grofsnik sedan almost simultaneously with the first collision.

Mrs. Mabel Quinlan, 50, owner of the convertible and a passenger in it, sustained bruises of the forehead and a wrenched back. The only person injured, she advised police that she would be treated by a family physician in Vermont.

Front end of the new convertible was dented and the radiator was damaged. Police said the estimate of damages to the Lickoff, Grofsnik and Quinlan cars approximated $500. Davis' car, the first to stop and the first in line, was only jounced by the impact of the crash, according to Pfc. Edward T. Beneski, investigating Stroudsburg State trooper. The accident occurred at 12:15 p. m., Saturday.

Dr. M. L. Leitner, pathologist at Monroe County General hospital, who was appointed coroner's physician in the case by Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, acting coroner, completed a report on the young woman's death.

After a post-mortem examination, he attributed death to epilepsy caused by a tumor in the frontal lobe of the brain.

Evangelical and Reformed church. Mrs. Emma Dold spent Monday with Mrs. Hannah Kresge at Brodheadsville.

Mrs. Celeste Bond attended the camp meeting held at Bowmans-town Sunday night.

Worst Storm Of Year Pelts Local Region

The heaviest rainfall since the big wind and rainstorm of last November occurred over the weekend in the Stroudsburg area. Lightning flashes, some of them the most severe of the year, continued throughout the long storm.

Local rain gauge measurements showed that between 10:30 p. m. Friday and 8 a. m. Saturday, 2.42 inches of rain fell. From 8 a. m. Saturday to 8 a. m. Sunday, 1.11 inches of rain came down. This made the total rainfall for the weekend 3.53 inches.

A check about the area revealed that telephone service in Bartonsville and Saylorsburg was discontinued for a little while by the storm.

In Brodheadsville, water flooded the highways and made driving very hazardous, many times forcing cars off the road and making it difficult for them to get started again. On the road from Portland to Easton, water as high as the running board of a car collected at low spots and reduced traffic to a snail's pace.

Up around Blakeslee, however, the storm seemed to veer off, and that section felt very little of the rain that came down in torrent in Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and points to the south.

Although the storm was the most severe of the summer, crop damage and automobile accidents were reported at a minimum.

Major Adam said she is still trying to arrange transportation back home for the group of Sunbeams.

Skidding Car Rams Broadside Into Coupe North Of Borough; Four Persons Suffer Injuries

Four persons were injured in a two-car crash which occurred on Route 611 just north of the borough of Stroudsburg at 9:10 a. m. Saturday.

Harold K. Foster, a 25-year-old Bloomfield, N. J., salesman, suffered lacerations of the head and left ankle, while his wife, Marjorie, 26, a passenger in a car operated by her husband, was more seriously injured.

At Monroe County General hospital, where the Fosters and two occupants of the other car involved were rushed, it was reported that Mrs. Foster received pelvic fractures. Her condition was listed as "good" late last night, however.

Alfonso Salerno, 45, of Old Forge, was treated at General hospital for head and knee injuries as a result of the same accident, while Elizabeth Salerno, 37, also of Old Forge, was admitted after physicians found she had a fracture of the left knee and a head injury.

According to Pfc. James R. Reilly, of Stroudsburg State police, the car driven northward on Route 611 skidded on the wet highway and swung broadside into the path of a southbound car owned and operated by Alfonso Salerno.

Entire right side of the New Jersey car was smashed in against Mrs. Foster, while the front of the Salerno coupe was also extensively damaged.

Both cars were towed from the scene to a Stroudsburg garage.

Eight guard rail posts in the 129-foot distance were clipped off as the car was pushed along the highway shoulder above the Lackawanna Railroad tracks.

Fallly and another person in his car were shaken up, but both left the scene later by taxi for a summer home in the Mount Pocono area. The car was towed by wrecker to an East Stroudsburg garage.

According to Chief Felker, the bus was driven by Luke N. Noland, of 1435 N. Sumner Ave., Scranton.

State Road Workers Get Pay Increase

The State's 14,500 highway workers, paid from motor fund revenues, have been given a 10 per cent increase amounting to $3,500,000 annually.

Ray F. Smock, secretary of highways, said the increase went into effect July 15 for 2,500 salaried workers and 12,500 maintenance men who are paid by the hour.

The increase will go to 165 State Highway department employees in Monroe county, it was learned here last night.

Gov. John S. Fine has recommended to the assembly a $9,000,000 increase for 35,000 other State employees, who are paid from the State's general fund. Action on the recommendation has been held up by the deadlock over the Governor's tax program.

Legislative action for the highway workers' pay boost was unnecessary, however, since they are paid from the fund raised by the State's gasoline tax and automobile license fees. A constitutional provision limits use of that fund to road and bridge work.

Luther P. Apple Succumbs At 87

The son of a late pastor of St. John's Lutheran church here died in Easton hospital last Friday night.

He was Luther P. Apple, 87, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Apple, and a former resident of Stroudsburg.

Mr. Apple was paymaster of the Lehigh Foundries, Easton, from which position he retired about eight years ago.

It's Still Alive!

We'd like to remind you the Legislature resumes today after a primary election recess. Gov. John S. Fine and Senator M. Harvey Taylor, his spokesman in the Senate yesterday called again for enactment of the one-half of one per cent income tax.

In press conferences, both men sought to sugar coat this bitter tax pill. Fine pointed out that legislators could enact the tax for a two year period...and then, in effect, see whether it is still needed.

Now that suggestion would be laughable, if it were not so dangerous. Ever hear of a tax being repealed? Especially, an income tax? No, that type of tax stays forever and grows, and grows and grows as we know, and Gov. Fine knows.

Senator Taylor, the master politician, attempted to sugar coat the gall of this tax measure by saying it should be earmarked for teachers' salaries or soldiers' bonus.

See the point there? He's appealing first for continued support of a huge pressure group, the Pennsylvania State Education Association, and secondly for aid from the veterans and their families. Taxes of that type just can't be earmarked for any group, because we'd all pay, and pay dearly.

We remain firm for economy, budget slashes and revision of revenue estimates. The 11 "rebel" Senators, including Montgomery F. Crowe, Stroudsburg, have proven this method will eliminate necessity for an income, sales or mercantile tax and no present service of State Government will be impaired. You still have time to drop a line or wire to remind the boys at Harrisburg you don't want to be soaked with an income tax.

Foul!

One of the most disillusioned communities in America today, we would guess, is Peoria, Ill.

For the stars on the great Bradley University basketball team have confessed to taking bribes from gamblers to "save" the point margins in some of their principal games.

Peoria, as the prosecuting attorney there put it, has "gone crazy" over this team in recent years.

Winners in 90 of the 108 games they played in three seasons, the members of this team were idols of schoolboys and adult fans everywhere—and especially in Peoria.

Corruption is corruption, wherever found. But the shock of such ugly revelations in a presumably clean and amateur American sport, involving an institution of higher learning, naturally will be cause for special anguish.

There is a temptation to share the relatively lenient attitude toward the players indicated by the prosecuting officials, and to throw the book at the guttersnipe gamblers who engineered this and similar deals elsewhere.

But isn't the background of the situation at Bradley also a culprit in this case?

Here is a comparatively small college, not widely known until it suddenly went big league on the basketball circuit. It is no coincidence when a school consistently comes up with top flight teams.

An institution which builds an arena capable of seating many thousands more than its total student body is not in the game merely for the enjoyment and health of its athletes.

The vast commercialization of college sports can be attributed to public popularity, and it is not for us to debate the merits or demerits of this development.

But what's happened at Bradley, and several other schools, is a natural result—human nature being as it often is.

A flea the size of a man could jump one-half mile.

The big star of a musical yesterday was Eddie Foy, but at the first curtain call on opening night, the ingenue suddenly stepped to the apron of the stage and took the bow. Later she told Foy tearfully, "I knew perfectly well the applause was for you. I don't know what came over me. Can you ever forgive me?" "It's quite all right, my dear," Foy assured her. "I always take the center of the stage with me."

A stranger wandered into Slip Muldoon's Crazy Guleh Saloon and tried to cash a check for a hundred dollars. Slip leaned across the bar and assure the Easterner in a stage whisper, "You look like an all-right character and your check is probably good for a hundred thousand bucks. But I don't trust them big New York banks. They'll probably give you both of us."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Frightening and bloodthirsty. That's how the master of ceremonies of an all-request TV program describes the wishes of many young viewers.

A whole grammar-school class wrote letters asking to see Joan of Arc burning at the stake. Another youth wanted dose fed to a woman to see how she'd react. A head-on collision of autos going 60 miles an hour and a close-up of a man dying in an electric chair were other requested sights.

The program, "You Asked For It," seen on 30 stations from coast to coast, hasn't filled these orders. But it has complied with some nearly as fantastic. About 1,400 requests a week come in by mail. Around the most interesting is, "The program is built."

An ex-Bowdoin wanted to see an old-time flea circus like he used to enjoy for a nickel. The show's cameraman had his toughest job to date—focusing a telescopic lens on a flea as it booted a pea four feet.

An Iowa woman wondered if Mabel Stark had nerve enough to return to her tiger act after recovering from a vicious clawing. Mabel performed—with six cats, including a tightrope-walker, in a cage transported to the TV studio.

A viewer said he had doubted the William Tell story since childhood. Archery Champ Stan Overby shot an apple off a friend's head from 27 paces away. Master of Ceremonies Art Baker let Overby shoot an ace of spades out of his fingers and puncture toy balloons held under his arms. "The week before," said the intrepid emcee, "a knife thrower outlined me with 10 knives."

A viewer, perhaps appalled by federal budget figures, asked to see a million dollars in $10 bills. Fourteen guards brought the cash to the studio in two armored trucks.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

A Misunderstood Country. It is indeed tragic that the rest of the world so completely misunderstands the United States. The question arises as to whether we understand ourselves. If we do, we have not been able to convey to the rest of the world what it is that we believe.

During World War II, our main propaganda agencies were, of course, the State Department and the OWI, managed by Elmer Davis and Joseph Barnes. Nelson Rockefeller operated a unit that was supposed to produce a "good neighbor policy" for Central and South America.

Then along came "The Voice of America" which is a very expensive organization but somehow it makes no impression on the rest of the world.

Professor Saul K. Padover makes the point:

"Unlike the Soviet Union, the United States has taken no steps to train political propagandists or people to wage psychological warfare. . . . There should be in Washington a high-level staff to

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

By Patrick J. Hurley
Former American Ambassador
To China

Washington, July 29 — The American people are confused in regard to both the foreign policy and the domestic policy.

The American domestic policy is now geared economically to our foreign policy.

The production of munitions and supplies which are given away abroad are responsible for the high rate of employment at home. This raises the question of how long the American economic system can stand lavish and wasteful give-away foreign policy with its accompanying high taxes and increase of the stupendous mortgage on the future of coming generations.

Secret diplomacy is at the base of America's diplomatic failures abroad. Our government is a government by the people. The people cannot reach correct conclusions if they are not given all the facts. The American people should not be committed to a foreign policy that must eventually lead to war unless and until the people have been given all the facts. Secret commitments binding a free people should not be made by diplomats without the knowledge of the people.

In the Atlantic charter promulgated by President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, August 14, 1941, the principles and the objectives for which we fought World War II were specifically stated. Among the principles stated was: (1) the nations . . . seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other . . .

The third principle stated in the Atlantic charter is: the nations . . . respect the right of all people to choose the form of government under which they will live . . .

The Atlantic charter was agreed to by our associates in the war, Russia, Britain, China and the United States and was immediately approved by 31 nations; it was finally approved by 45 nations and was reaffirmed at Tehran on December 1, 1943, over the signatures of Joseph V. Stalin for Russia, Winston S. Churchill for the United Kingdom and Franklin D. Roosevelt for the United States.

Our diplomats surrendered these principles and returned the world to the old Machiavellian—corrupt intrigues and secret deals at Yalta and subsequent conferences. In secret the objectives for which we said we were fighting World War II and to which our associates agreed were surrendered. Because of that surrender we lost the peace after we had won the war.

Secret hearings by executive star-chambered commissions in Washington; secret hearings before committees in Congress; secret proceedings by the so-called Council of Foreign Ministers, have all contributed to that system of "leaks" whereby all the enemies of liberty are permitted to know the commitments made in secret by the representatives of the American people but some of the commitments have been kept secret from the American people.

It is more than five years since I resigned as ambassador to China and publicly called attention to these facts. I stated at that time that our appeasement of Communism and imperialism would lead to a third world war. The policy of appeasement of Communism is changing. But this change is being made after both Communism and imperialism have taken advantage of the secret surrenders and the secret commitments made by American diplomats. The change in the American policy that is now taking place is not complete.

While America was giving lip service to the United Nations it set up the Council of Foreign Ministers for the purpose of bypassing the United Nations and set up and supervise a political and operational training center. Such an institution should, after severe screening and testing, recruit the ablest and most imaginative candidates regardless of age or sex, and train them both politically and technically. This is especially important because all world-political signs indicate that we are in for a long conflict on ideological grounds, and one that will continue whether there is shooting or not. . . .

Our tendency has been to turn this job over to advertising and public relations men. Their training unsuited them for the work. An advertising man does not need to believe in the product he sells. He may be a cigar smoker who despises cigarettes. He thinks in slogans rather than ideas.

The current American type of public relations man is a far cry from Lemuel Eli Quigg or Ivy Lee, who were idealists. They served not their clients as much as the ideas in which they believed and advised their clients accordingly. Too many American business men hire and fire public relations counsel as they do foremen and are served accordingly.

In the battle over ideas, the techniques to sell "body odors" or to write dull speeches for half-ing industrialists will not serve. There must be faith, sincerity, conviction. Every agent must be fervid, even fanatical in its acceptance of a view.

Let us see what we want to say to the world. It can be stated simply:

1. The United States believes that every individual on the face of the earth possesses inalienable rights, among them life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the ownership of property protected by law.

2. The United States believes that these rights are not a product of legislation or administration, but that they are manifestations of God's Will; that they come from Nature's God and Nature's Law.

3. The United States has no aspirations to increase its territory or to take over any people.

4. The United States believes that every people, great or small, is entitled to a government of its own choice, selected as the people themselves determine without interference by any other government by any means, by war, by propaganda, by infiltration, by intrigue.

5. The United States is committed to an association of nations in which any nation may be a member if its people so desire.

No such association may be regarded as satisfactory as long as independent and sovereign nations are excluded from membership.

Few people in any country believe that the United States has not been using its billions of give-away dollars for some ulterior purpose. The belief that the United States seeks something selfish and materialistic is so generally held that it can only be the product of our own activities.

Soviet Russia has been magnificently successful in painting America as a selfish, materialistic country that hates all people who are not "white." Professor Padover tells this story:

"This writer heard Asian students say that 'it is a well known fact' that during World War II the United States dropped the atom bomb on the Japanese because the latter were a yellow race and did not drop it on the Germans because they were white. 'Everybody in Asia,' the students added, 'knows that to be true.'"

It is terrifying how such an utterly false idea can be accepted and believed and spread. Yet ideas such as these are being circulated and believed throughout the world.

My New York

New York—It takes all kinds to make a city like this, he said philosophically, and some of the kinds only stay long enough for you to tip your hat to them. Consider, if you will, Ken Jury of Falls Church, Va.

For the last 26 years, Ken has been visiting New York three times a week, which, unless his bulldog of an arithmetical mind has let me down, makes nearly 4,000 trips to the big town. He should know Manhattan like the back of his hand—and yet Ken Jury's New York is a tunnel, a few crowded blocks of West Side traffic, a warehouse, a shabby hotel, a diner and a Times Square movie house.

If the pony express can be said to have lived on, Ken Jury is, then, a pony expressman. He's a truck driver, a 42-year-old Virginia truck driver who drives what the trade calls a tractor pulling a 32-foot trailer carrying 10 tons or so of freight, mostly textiles. Only he doesn't haul them all the way on their appointed journeys; they usually are trucked up from Alabama to Washington by some other driver, and then Ken picks them up in Washington and makes that 225-mile trip to New York, through the dangerous territory peopled by the New Jersey autoist.

You figure a truck driver to look like—well, like a truck driver. Ken might upset your figures; he's medium-sized, with a lean face, sharp eyes, a little gray over the ears and the look of a New Englander farmer about him. He used to be a tech sergeant in ordinance, with four years in Hawaii and Luzon to his credit, and he's quiet and courteous. Nobody is going to put anything over on him, but on the other hand you can hunt all night for the brass knuckles and not find them.

When he comes into New York, it's usually around 3 in the morning. He rumbles through the Holland Tunnel and pulls into the Associated Transport warehouse at Washington and Barrow streets where he either parks his rig or turns it over to a yard man. Then he turns in his waybill, manifests, etc., to a dispatcher and heads for a nearby diner, where he renews the most casual of friendships with other drivers from all over the country.

He gets six or eight hours' sleep in what he calls a "bean-bag" hotel and then arises about 1 or 2 o'clock. Until 8, his time is his own. When you're a dead-tired truck driver, you don't want to see what Grant's Tomb looks like on your few hours off, or visit the Metropolitan Museum of making peace treaties between nations that have never respected a treaty obligation. Our policy should have been to build world peace through the United Nations.

In his book, "Speaking Frankly," Secretary Byrnes has said of the Council of Foreign Ministers which has been recently meeting in secret in Paris: "Because I was the first to propose to President Truman that the Council of Foreign Ministers be established as the machinery to prepare drafts of peace treaties, one must realize how reluctant I am to conclude that it can no longer serve the purpose for which it was established."

The Council of Foreign Ministers has for a period of five years defeated the efforts of the United Nations to establish world peace on a collective security basis. The Council of Foreign Ministers should be dissolved.

America should return to a positive foreign policy based upon the principles of individual liberty, regulated free enterprise, self-government and justice.

American people should not be deluded by propaganda into believing the American taxpayer can raise the standard of living of the world by direct gifts; by continuing to attempt to do so America may destroy its own economic well-being.

Art. You want to be amused—and Ken's amusement, like that of the 25 or so other Associated Transport drivers who are in New York daily on schedules similar to his, is limited. They take in a movie up in Times Square—the big first-run houses like the Paramount or Roxy, if they're flush, the "grind" houses along 42nd street if they're nursing their dough. Then with the time left over, they shoot pool, the truck driver's occupational disease—always staying within phone call of the dispatcher's desk, since they may be moved up on their schedule and have to start out earlier.

If you ask him what he thinks of New Yorkers, he'll grin and tell you they're in too much of a hurry. Speed, he understands; hurrying is something entirely else again. He sees the hurriers strewn along the roadsides, on his way up here from Washington, their skulls crushed, their cars broken to bits. Just last year he pulled a soldier from a wreck near Cranberry, N. J., saving the GI from bleeding to death from a severed artery by applying a two-handkerchief tourniquet.

Ken's married for the second time, lives in a five-room single frame house with a garden and hunts croakers in Chesapeake Bay and deer in the Pennsylvania mountains, when he has time. He's a baseball fan, rooting for the Yanks, but in 25 years of visiting here, he's never seen them play. There are a lot of other things in New York that Ken Jury never has seen, and never seems to have time for. It's too bad. He might like the town if he saw more of it.

Looking at Life

"Gook philosophy," John C. Caldwell, former attaché at the United States Embassy in Korea, called it.

"Looking down on Asiatics because they live differently, because they don't have flush plumbing," he explained.

"I think a lot of us suffer from 'gook philosophy.'"

We look down upon people who live differently from the way we do, whose way of life we don't understand.

It does apply not only to the Asiatics, but to everyone here at home.

For instance, we have a woman in our neighborhood who is about as frustrated as anyone can be. So what does she do?

She goes from house to house, prying into the affairs of her neighbors and tells the weirdest stories about them.

And always she tries to emphasize those points in which she, herself, is particularly weak. That's "gook philosophy."

Did you read about the wedding about Stalin's daughter Svetlana?

The bridegroom did not have Stalin's approval, being neither statesman nor military leader.

Then, after having reluctantly given in, what did he do?

He gave his daughter a wedding which, according to reports, outshone any post-war wedding in the West.

This is what the London Sunday Express said about it: "Pink Crimean" champagne.

The Once Over

Who Wouldn't Be Confused?

This is Saratoga-Ar-Jamaica time, the period when a Saratoga race meeting is officially mumbo-jumboed into Jamaica, L. I. It is a quaint custom carried over from the war in some horse race areas, and Saratoga-Ar-Jamaica is a sort of Shudda Haddim-At-The-End-Of-His rope meeting. "You can't fool me," declared Shudda Haddim today. "It's still Jamaica, even if one hotel is using rope for a fire escape, doubling the price of all rooms and running a slow elevator service."

"Don't give me that old line about honesty in racing," he went on. "When they tell me Saratoga is at Jamaica they are no George Washingtons. Would I be honest if I said I was not Shudda Haddim the handicapper, but Joe Binbo, the caretaker of the Saratoga Battleground? Would a Long Island Local be honest if it called itself the Saratoga Express?"

We explained that calling a race meeting at Jamaica a Saratoga race meeting carried with it no implications geographically and was simply done to guarantee the Saratoga Racing Association a profit on the year, since it awards such big stakes at the Spa next month. He seemed satisfied and promised to go along with the idea and cooperate with the mutual machines. "It won't be too hard," he said. "As a matter of fact I am in such shape after the third or fourth race that I don't know where I am anyhow. By the time the fifth is over I am apt to be Shudda Haddim-At-The-Saratoga-Ar-Monmouth-At-Narragansett meeting. And by the sixth I am pretty certain to be Haddim-At-The-Hialeah-At-Chicago-At-Bowie races. By the end of the day I am Haddim-At-Niagara-Falls-In-A-Barrel."

"How are things around Canarsie?" we asked. "I am not living at Canarsie in late July," he explained. "I am at home at Greenpoint-at-the-Gowanus-Canal."

"How's the wife?"

"She left me and is now Mrs. Shudda Haddim-At-Hoboken-At-Pasaic-With-Mother."

Pardon me, but you have some mustard on your chin. You must have had some hot dogs at the Stevens luncheon, we said.

"You have the wrong name," he corrected. "It is now the Stevens-At-The-Waldorf-At-Toots-Shor's-At-Saratoga. And there are no hot dogs. They are now called the Chicken-At-Frankfurter. Could you let me have a small loan?"

"How much," we asked. "Ten dollars," he replied.

"At Jamaica you generally ask for two dollars," we said.

"I am now asking a Ten-Dollar-At-Two-Bucks loan," he explained.

Seventeen hundred schools and colleges got more than twenty million dollars to which they were not entitled by the Veterans Educational Program, it is revealed. Many overcharged Uncle Sam for books, equipment, tuition, etc. And some even took the government for such items as entertainment and banquets and flowers for funerals. Presumably the deans of these schools would express great indignation if a student cheated at basketball.

Hundreds of such schools, it is alleged, are operated as more or less of a racket for exploiting the program. Their Alma Mater, in a manner of speaking, is a pickpocket.

A mule is now an established sensation novelty, inasmuch as it has never been in a scandal of any kind.

We know a fellow who is so mixed up by the radio and video commercials that he shaves with a beer, drinks shaving cream, uses razor blades as a scalp massage and brushes his teeth with a cigarette.

Doctors average $11,000 a year, a survey shows. A good deal of which the patients should be able to recover in refunds.

Can you remember away back when no basketball player got off form because of an unsatisfactory bank balance?

Frederick Calkins Takes Jacqueline Ebling As Bride

CANADENSIS—The wedding of Miss Jacqueline Ebling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob N. Ebling, of Buck Hill Falls, and Frederick Hudson Calkins II, son of Mrs. Hiram B. Calkins and the late Mr. Calkins, of this place, took place in the Methodist church Saturday at 4 p. m.

Rev. Claude L. Hellenmann, pastor of the church, performed the single ring ceremony, in a setting of palms, rhododendron and gladioli which formed the attractive decorations.

Mrs. Frank Bender, organist, and Miss Cheryl S. Greise, harpist, furnished the music for the wedding.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white Chantilly lace dress over white satin, with illusion fingertip veil falling from a small lace cap. She carried white orchids and pompons.

The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Richard M. Fischer, of Langhorne, sister of the bride, selected a pale green chiffon and satin dress with short cape and had flowers in her hair. Her bouquet was made up of light pink carnations and pompons.

Miss Ruth Amelia Ebling, Buck Hill Falls, served as her sister's maid-of-honor. She was attired in a pink chiffon dress with flowers in her hair and carried a bouquet of lavender astors and orchid pompons.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Bjorn Anderson, of Bloomfield, N. J., and Miss Anne C. Gutekunst, of Philadelphia. They both wore dresses similar to that of the maid-of-honor and hair handbands, their bouquets being of pink and lavender astors and pink pompons.

Cope-Levergood Wedding Is Solemnized In Church

CHERRY VALLEY—The Cherry Valley Methodist church was the scene of the midsummer wedding of Miss Mary Etta Levergood, daughter of Rev. C. Clyde Levergood, pastor, and Mrs. Levergood, this place, and LeRoy Fretz Cope, son of Mrs. Ida Cope, of 1421 Linden St., Allentown, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The bride's father performed the single ring ceremony assisted by Rev. George Laughead, of Allentown, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends.

The church decorations consisted of two large palms at the front of the edifice and two large bouquets of white gladioli. At the ends of the pews were ferns and white satin bows, furnishing a nice atmosphere for the ceremony.

Suitable wedding music was furnished by Edwin Felencer, church organist, the soloist having been Mrs. Nora Meisenheimer, of York, who was heard in the numbers, "Blessed Wedding Day," "With This Ring" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white full length gown of organdy over satin with fingertip lace veil. She carried a bridal bouquet centered with a white rose corsage surrounded with white delphinium and baby's breath.

Miss Betty Levergood was her sister's maid-of-honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Ann Reynolds, of Nottingham, Pa.; Miss Eleanor Dorn, of Philadelphia, and Miss Emma Lou Zarfoss, of York.

The attendants in the bridal party all wore pale blue dresses of lace and marquisette with matching mitts and picture hats. The maid-of-honor carried a loose colonial bouquet of orange delight roses with white delphinium. The bridesmaids carried pale yellow roses with blue delphinium. All had sprigs of ivy over their skirts.

George Heinrich, of Allentown, acted as best man. The ushers were Richard Breith and Donald Matthews, both of Allentown, and Charles Levergood Jr., of Cherry Valley, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a heather rose dinner gown of lace and marquisette and a corsage of white gardenias. The bridegroom's mother chose a pale blue and white gown of silk.

The reception for 200 guests, originally planned for the lawn of the parsonage, due to the inclement weather conditions, was held at the Grange hall following the wedding. The hall was attractively decorated with flowers, bells and white crepe paper.

The bride's table was decorated with white gladioli and centered with a four-tier wedding cake surmounted by a vase of flowers.

The newly wedded couple are touring the Catskill mountains in New York state. The bride's attire for traveling was a dark brown dress with brown and white accessories and rust colored velvet hat. Their future address will be 813 S. Sixth St., Allentown.

The bride was graduated at Bedford, Pa. High school and she attended Juniata College and West Chester State Teachers College two years each. She was engaged at teaching in the Collingwood, N. J., schools. The bridegroom is a graduate of Allentown High School, is employed as a boys' counselor at the Good Shepherd Home, Allentown.

Bangor Host To Another Negro Game

Bangor—Two of the big name teams in the Negro American Baseball League have it out under the lights at Bangor Memorial Park stadium Thursday night at 8:15. The attraction, third of a series of official circuit contests offered under the promotion of the Bangor A. A. Light Committee, pits the Indianapolis Clowns against the Memphis Red Sox.

Indianapolis, already credited with one worthy performance under the State City arcs, will have to look to its laurels in this one for the opponent from the deep south has been its most stubborn of the season and the two have twice tangled in games which ended in stalemates, the only ones involved in their respective first-half campaigns.

First Half

And while the Clowns raced to the initial semester championship in the east via 34 wins and 13 losses, Memphis, placing second to the Kansas City Monarchs in the western division fight, was not far off stride, turning in 27 triumphs as compared to 19 reverses.

With five members hitting over .300 average at the plate, but the Red Sox also present the same slam-bang brand of ball, have four men swinging successfully in the charmed circle, and have one of the deadliest gunners in the loop in Neil Robinson, who is pounding the pill at a .372 clip. The club is averaging .279.

The sharp attack of each nine is accompanied by some of the finest fielding in the wheel and it would not be surprising if the two put on a show paralleling that of a year ago at Bangor when the Baltimore Elite Giants and the Chicago American Giants battled through a dozen innings before the latter wrested the decision.

Paige Gains Credit For First Win As Brownies Divide Two

Washington, CP—The St. Louis Browns rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to capture the second game of a doubleheader with Washington, 8-6, after the Senators won the opener, 7-2. "Satchel" Paige, who replaced Tommy Byrne in his first victory since returning to the major leagues with the Browns two weeks ago.

Mickey Harris, third of four Washington pitchers in the second game, was the victim of the Browns' outburst. Bob Young drove across two runs in the ninth inning and "Hank" Arft smashed across two more to break a 4-4 tie. The Senators nicked Paige for two runs in their ninth after they loaded the bases with none out. Sam Mele hit into a double play. Gil Coan scored and Irv Noren scored when Shortstop Bill Jennings fumbled Sam Dente's grounder.

The Score

The Browns spurred into a 4-0 lead in the second game, but Mickey Vernon smashed a base-loaded double in the seventh to score three runs and Mele doubled to tie the score.

St. Louis grasped a 2-0 lead in the first game but the Senators cut loose for seven runs in the fourth inning against Al Widmar and Lou Sleater. Vernon also socked a bases-loaded double in that uprisal to score three runs.

Analomink Rolls Over Kemp Post

Henrieville—Analomink had everything its own way here yesterday, as the home team picked up an easy 16-2 victory over George N. Kemp American Legion Post in a Pocono Mountain League contest.

The losing aggregation reached Dick Miller for two runs in the first frame and was blanked the remainder of the distance, as Analomink backed-up its hurler with only one error.

Ted Sebring blasted a home run into left field, with the sacks empty, in the bottom of the seventh stanza.

Mangrum Wins At St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., CP—Ignoring telephoned threats and playing with a police guard in the gallery, Lloyd Mangrum yesterday won the St. Paul Open Golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 266.

Last night, after shooting a sensational ten-under-par 62 for a new St. Paul Open record, Mangrum was awakened in his hotel room by the ringing of the telephone. A voice inquired if it was Mangrum, answering, Mangrum replied that it was and another voice came over the telephone saying:

"Don't win the St. Paul Open or you won't get out alive."
He shot a two-under-par 70 to go with his record-shattering 62 of Saturday and two previous rounds of 67.

Schick Slams Home Run In Winning Cause

Stockertown—Pocono A. C. went wild on the strength of 18 hits good for 26 bases yesterday, as Manager John Schoonover pitched the number two team in the Blue Mountain League standings to an 11-3 verdict over Stockertown, here on the losing team's home field. It was the first win in the last three games for the Schoonover-men.

Even while winning with ease the A. C. contingent was forced to come from behind in the fifth frame, as Stockertown accounted for five of its seven hits off Schoonover in the first two innings, including a 300-foot homer by Steve Janccheck, with one mate aboard in the bottom of the second round.

Stockertown also scored once in the first. However, the second inning outburst was the last time that a Stockertown runner was to dent home plate in the game, as the A. C. pilot scattered two singles over the final seven innings.

Pocono A. C. tallied one time in the first round and came back with one more counter in the fourth, as Bob Schick blasted his first official home run of the season over the left field fence, 300 feet from home plate, with the bases empty.

Turning Point
However, Schick's blow was the turning point of the game as the visiting contingent climbed on Phil Cooper for three markers in the fifth and drove him to cover in favor of Bill Yanic, who in turn was blasted out in the seventh, in favor of Andy Julius, after giving up six tallies.

Julius finished the game without allowing a runner to reach the payoff station.

John Drew was the big gun in the Pocono A. C. attack, blasting out three singles in four official trips, which in turn chased four runners across the plate. Dewey Martling and Jim Wertheiser also hit safely three times for the winning aggregation.

While his supporting cast was piling up the runs, Schoonover was complete master of the game after the second inning, with only one of the final 19 Stockertown batters facing the veteran right hander able to reach first base. Newt Meyer singled in the seventh to become the only Stockertown runner in the late frames.

Schoonover retired five via the strikeout rule and allowed only one walk.

Pocono A. C. clashes with Nazareth, Tri-County League, in an exhibition at Gordon Giffels field, tomorrow night, then plays host to Roseto, an arch-rival, in a Blue Mountain League contest at the same field on Wednesday. Both games at 8:30.
